CITY BUDGET TO BE CUT $25,000 TO REDUCE TAXES

WILL KEEP WITHIN THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT TAX RATE; COUNTY TAXES CAUSE OF CUT FOR CITY

City officials will cut the city budget for 1922 about $25,000 to make the city taxes fall within the three and one-half per cent tax rate, it was learned from official sources today. Mayor Briere stated that he intended to keep the rate at three and one-half and City Clerk F. G. Gilkey, who is now busy working on the city tax roll, expects to announce the exact amount of the reduction of the budget by Monday of next week.

Budget was $209,000

The original budget authorized by the city council as recommended by the Mayor called for an outlay of $209,600. The county and state tax certified to the city this year amounts to $142,287.86 of which $15,962.86 is the state tax, the balance being the general and special county taxes. The county taxes are cited by the city officials as being about $40,000 higher this year than last and is given as the reason for the necessary cut of the city budget to keep the tax rate at three and one-half.

Assessed Valuation Increased

The school budget, city and vocational aid this year amounts to $97,100 which will not be cut along with the remainder of the city budget.

The assessed valuation of the city was increased about one million four hundred thousand dollars, chiefly among the manufacturing plants of the city and such business houses as enlarged their equipment and buildings, the Mayor stated. He said that there was no general increases in assessment. The largest increase was made at the Consolidated mill.

REFUSE GERMAN PLEA FOR TIME EXTENSION

(By Associated Press)

Paris, Dec. 17—The allied reparations commission today refused definitely to consider Germany's request for an extension of time for her January and February reparation payments. The allied position i sthat before any concessions may be made, Germany must tell just what she can pay on these installments, and must give certain other information that has been demanded.

The text of the commissions note to Berlin was made public today.

SNOW ON WIRES IS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

The heavy snow and sleet which formed on the city electric wires overloading them caused several breaks in the wires and a discontinuation of power service on one of the main lines of the city about four thirty o'clock Friday afternoon. The repairs took considerable time and paralyzed the service temporarily delaying the issuing of the Tribune for about an hour. Other institutions also suffered from the break.

Two electric poles were brought down today in the residence section, one on Baker street and one on Lincoln street, caused by the sleet and snow freezing to the poles, wires and cross bars. All repairs were made Saturday afternoon, Supt. Gross stated.

HINDU STUDENT VISITS IN CITY

INSPECTS HUGE PAPER MACHINE AT CONSOLIDATED; PLANS TO ERECT MILL IN INDIA TO MANUFACTURE PAPER

To establish a paper mill, owned and operated by Hindu interests, in northern India, is the ambition of C. Kohli, a native of Jammu, India, whi visited the local mill of the Consolidated Water Power & Paper Co. Friday. Mr. Kohli came to this country five years ago, and during this time he has not only mastered the English language but has succeeded in winning a degree of A. B. from Cornell and a post-graduate degree of Chemical Engineer. Since his graduation last June, Mr. Kohli has been investigating the paper industries of the United States and Canada, gathering together facts and figures upon which to base estimates for the establishing of a paper mill in northern India, which mill will be the first venture of its kind by the native Hindus.

Wage Scale Low In India

According to Mr. Kohli, there is an unlimited supply of timber available for pulp wood, in the northern mountainous region of India, and this, together with the cheapness of labor in that country, will enable the new company to enter into keen competition with English interests, which now control the paper market of India. "We will not need all of the equipment which you find necessary here," he said, "for example, we will not need barking drums, for we can hire native labor to do this work by hand at the rate of 30c per day."

Country Undeveloped

According to Mr. Kohli, the lack of unity of language, the poor means of communication between the different provinces in India, and the lack of facilities for education of the native population, have immensureably retarded the development of that great country of 250,000,000 population. The political life of India is controlled entirely by the English, he states and any attempt toward the development of a national spirit in India is discouraged, and looked upon with disfavor by the English authorities. Native princes have been rendered powerless politically under the English rule, according to Mr. Kohli.

Mr. Kohli states that the educated Hindus as well as the masses look hopefully toward the western hemisphere, striving for a closer understanding between the comparatively new western civilization and the ancient civilization of India. The establishing of better educational facilities for the masses in India is the great need of that country today, he states.

SANTA TO BE HERE SURE ON TUESDAY

SANTA CLAUS WRITES ANOTHER LETTER TODAY. BOYS AND GIRLS BE SURE TO MEET HIM IF YOU WANT A GOOD TIME.

Well, boys and girls, Santa has written us another letter today. He is very anxious to have you all meet him Tuesday and have a good time with him. Here is what he writes today:

Dear Boys and Girls:

Did you read my letter in Friday's Tribune? What do you think of our plan? Now, be sure and meet me at the Northwestern train at 1:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and we will have one of the jolliest times we ever had.

I was talking to Mr. Reed and Mr. Stark about the shows they are going to have for us, and by the looks of things they are going to be dandies.

Now, children, I haven't time to write you a longer letter as I still have a few toys to make and I must get ready for my trip, so I will close hoping to meet you Tuesday.

From your old friend,
SANTA CLAUS

Here is something about the show that will be held at the Palace Theater on Tuesday:

Scenes at Ellis Island, showing important episodes in the action of "The Land of Hope," Alice Brady's latest production, were taken under great difficulties.

The star and twenty members of her cast were several times mistaken for real immigrants and subjected to long cross-questioning by minor attaches of the immigration bureau.

Types chosen for these scenes were naturally persons who can play immigrants of the poorer classes, and as they had mingled with the thousands who are waiting at Ellis Island to be admitted to New York, it was nearly impossible to distinguish and separate them.

"The Land of Hope," which comes to the Palace theater presents Miss Brady in the role of a Polish immigrant girl who wins success and happiness in the land of her adoption.

The following is a short story about the big serial which will be shown at the Ideal.

Captain John C. Fremont, one of the greatest figures in American history, was a terror to Indians, from the plains east of the Rockies to the Pacific Coast. He led his hardy troops to the rescue of many bands of settlers, besieged by scalp-hunting Indians traveling to the gold fields of California by prairie schooners.

Just such a rescue, led in person by the doughty explorer-soldier, is to be seen at the Ideal Theater next Tuesday when the third installment of "Winners of the West" will be shown. This continued feature, being shown weekly at the Ideal, is a thrilling chaptered photo-drama of the pioneer days.

The famous Indian fighters and scouts who cleared the way for the westward march of American civilization are in this film made by Universal, with Art Acord in the leading role.

MUNICIPALITIES MAY NOW SUPPRESS BOOZE

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17—Municipalities now have the power to suppress entirely the manufacture, sale, transportation or possession of intoxicating liquors for any purpose whatever, W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, advises district attorneys and peace officers of the state in a letter today.

As a result of the recent opinion of the attorney general, holding that cities could enact local prohibition ordinances, Mr. Smith says that "they have the power to prohibit a physician from writing a prescription for intoxicating liquor, or a druggist from filling such a prescription, to prohibit the sale of patent medicines or extracts containing alcohol, and in general to make their own municipality 'bone dry'."

STATE REVISIONS IN INCOME TAXES

NEW REGULATIONS WILL GO INTO EFFECT JANUARY 1; RATES FOR 1921 ARE UNCHANGED.

Milwaukee — "Enactment of new revenue legislation has brought to the offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue a flood of inquiries regarding various provisions. The Revenue Act of 1921 became effective November 23, 1921, "unless otherwise provided for."

"To avoid error in the preparation of their returns and later difficulties with the Bureau of Internal Revenue taxpayers are advised to carefully note the changes and when they become effective.

"The excess profits tax is repealed as of January 1, 1922. The rates for 1921 are unchanged.

The surtax rates for the calendar year 1921 are unchanged ,and range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 the surtax rates range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000.

"The exemption allowed for a dependent is increased from $200 to $400. Married persons living with husband or wife and heads of families are allowed a personal exemption of $2,500 (instead of $2,000) unless the net income is in excess of $5,000 in which case the personal exemption is only $2,000. The act provides that in no case shall the reduction of the personal exemption from $2,500 to $2,000 operate to increase the tax which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the amount of net income in excess of $5,000. This is to overcome the disparity in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2,000 exemption and the other just within the higher $2,500 exemption.

"Single persons, and married persons not living with husband or wife are allowed an exemption of $1,000. Non-resident aliens are allowed a single personal exemption of $1,000. Persons having gross incomes for 1921 of $5,000 or over are required to make a return, regardless of the amount of net income.

MAN IMPLICATED IS ARRESTED BY WARSAW POLICE

CONFESSION GIVES NAMES OF ACTUAL BOMBERS AND ARRESTS WILL FOLLOW, IS BELIEF.

By Associated Press)

Washington, Dec. 17—The arrest in Warsaw of Wolfe Lindenfeld will clear up the entire mystery of the Wall Street bomb explosion of September 16, 1920, William Burns, head of the department of justice bureau of investigation, stated today.

Lindenfeld, whose arrest was reported to the department of justice by the Associated Press, was described by Burns as the key to the solution of the mystery and "the only man we know in the world that knows all about it."

Intimate With Reds

Lindenfeld himself was not implicated in the explosion, Burns declared, but was so close to the radical elements who perpetrated it that he knew all about it. The Third International is said to have been the moving spirit behind the plot, and Burns asserts that if the information obtainable from Lindenfeld proves as expected, arrests of the leaders in the plot will be immediate.

Polish Police Arrest

Warsaw, Dec. 17— Aman by the name of Wolfe Lindenfeld, alias William Linde, has been arrested by the police here as a suspect in connection with the Wall street explosion in New York on September 16, 1920. The Warsaw police said they made the arrest at the request of the American department of justice. They said they had the man's full confession of being connected with the disaster.

Lindenfeld is described as a cousin of Rosa Luxemburg, the German radical Socialist leader who was shot to death in Berlin early in 1919, after having been beaten by a mob.

Timed To Get Morgan

His confession, the police state, gives the names of the ringleaders and the New York City address where the bomb was manufactured and says also that the bomb was intended for J. P. Morgan, but exploded prematurely.

According to Cosgrove and Paul Attendori, who trailed Lindenfeld, the suspect in his confession names five principals now in Europe, who shared the money for the job. One of the principals, the confession shows, was a woman who from a window opposite Mr. Morgan's office observed the financier's movements for days, and from her reports the bomb was timed to explode about the usual time Mr. Morgan came out for luncheon.

Exploded Before Planned

The confession, as described by the American agents, terms the premature explosion " a mechanical mistake," for which the bombmakers are blamed. Lindenfeld estimating that the bomb exploded from ten to fifteen minates before the intended time. The plotters also accuse the driver of the wagon which brought the bomb to Wall street of having erred in not leaving the wagon nearer the Morgan office.

MUNICIPALITIES MAY NOW SUPPRESS BOOZE

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17—Municipalities now have the power to suppress entirely the manufacture, sale, transportation or possession of intoxicating liquors for any purpose whatever, W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, advises district attorneys and peace officers of the state in a letter today.

As a result of the recent opinion of the attorney general, holding that cities could enact local prohibition ordinances, Mr. Smith says that "they have the power to prohibit a physician from writing a prescription for intoxicating liquor, or a druggist from filling such a prescription, to prohibit the sale of patent medicines or extracts containing alcohol, and in general to make their own municipality 'bone dry'."

STATE REVISIONS IN INCOME TAXES

NEW REGULATIONS WILL GO INTO EFFECT JANUARY 1; RATES FOR 1921 ARE UNCHANGED

Milwaukee — "Enactment of new revenue legislation has brought to the offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue a flood of inquiries regarding various provisions. The Revenue Act of 1921 became effective November 23, 1921, "unless otherwise provided for."

"To avoid error in the preparation of their returns and later difficulties with the Bureau of Internal Revenue taxpayers are advised to carefully note the changes and when they become effective.

"The excess profits tax is repealed as of January 1, 1922. The rates for 1921 are unchanged.

The surtax rates for the calendar year 1921 are unchanged ,and range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent on the amount of net income in excess of $1,000,000. For the calendar year 1922 the surtax rates range from 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000.

"The exemption allowed for a dependent is increased from $200 to $400. Married persons living with husband or wife and heads of families are allowed a personal exemption of $2,500 (instead of $2,000) unless the net income is in excess of $5,000 in which case the personal exemption is only $2,000. The act provides that in no case shall the reduction of the personal exemption from $2,500 to $2,000 operate to increase the tax which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the amount of net income in excess of $5,000. This is to overcome the disparity in the case of two taxpayers, one of whom is just within the lower $2,000 exemption and the other just within the higher $2,500 exemption.

"Single persons, and married persons not living with husband or wife are allowed an exemption of $1,000. Non-resident aliens are allowed a single personal exemption of $1,000. Persons having gross incomes for 1921 of $5,000 or over are required to make a return, regardless of the amount of net income.

MAN IMPLICATED IS ARRESTED BY WARSAW POLICE

CONFESSION GIVES NAMES OF ACTUAL BOMBERS AND ARRESTS WILL FOLLOW, IS BELIEF.

By Associated Press)

Washington, Dec. 17—The arrest in Warsaw of Wolfe Lindenfeld will clear up the entire mystery of the Wall Street bomb explosion of September 16, 1920, William Burns, head of the department of justice bureau of investigation, stated today.

Lindenfeld, whose arrest was reported to the department of justice by the Associated Press, was described by Burns as the key to the solution of the mystery and "the only man we know in the world that knows all about it."

Intimate With Reds

Lindenfeld himself was not implicated in the explosion, Burns declared, but was so close to the radical elements who perpetrated it that he knew all about it. The Third International is said to have been the moving spirit behind the plot, and Burns asserts that if the information obtainable from Lindenfeld proves as expected, arrests of the leaders in the plot will be immediate.

Polish Police Arrest

Warsaw, Dec. 17— Aman by the name of Wolfe Lindenfeld, alias William Linde, has been arrested by the police here as a suspect in connection with the Wall street explosion in New York on September 16, 1920. The Warsaw police said they made the arrest at the request of the American department of justice. They said they had the man's full confession of being connected with the disaster.

Lindenfeld is described as a cousin of Rosa Luxemburg, the German radical Socialist leader who was shot to death in Berlin early in 1919, after having been beaten by a mob.

Timed To Get Morgan

His confession, the police state, gives the names of the ringleaders and the New York City address where the bomb was manufactured and says also that the bomb was intended for J. P. Morgan, but exploded prematurely.

According to Cosgrove and Paul Altendorf, who trailed Lindenfeld, the suspect in his confession names five principals now in Europe, who shared the money for the job. One of the principals, the confession shows, was a woman who from a window opposite Mr. Morgan's office observed the financier's movements for days, and from her reports the bomb was timed to explode about the usual time Mr. Morgan came out for luncheon.

Exploded Before Planned

The confession, as described by the American agents, terms the premature explosion " a mechanical mistake," for which the bombmakers are blamed. Lindenfeld estimating that the bomb exploded from ten to fifteen minutes before the intended time. The plotters also accuse the driver of the wagon which brought the bomb to Wall street of having erred in not leaving the wagon nearer the Morgan office.

GOOD SERVICE FIRST

Postmaster General Will H. Hays wants to put his department in a business basis and in his first annual report makes suggestions for accomplishment of the end. In the last fiscal year there was a deficit of $157,517,274, notwithstanding the total revenue of $463,291,274 exceeded by $26,341,062 the revenue o fthe preceding year. The public, remembering the deterioration of the service under the Burleson regime and the marked improvement that has taken place since Mr. Hays entered office, will agree heartily with his statement that "if it were a question between the best practical service on the one hand and a poorer service with revenue meeting cost on the other hand, decision should be resolved in favor of rendering the service." Here is the whole problem of the business.

Postmaster General Hays makes some suggestions for charging for services which now are rendered virtually free but which the public pays for through taxation. They will have to be studied before conclusions can be formed as to their merits. But they would not produce the huge sum needed to make the postoffice self-supporting. Higher rates of postage will not be generally favored. But good service will be insisted on, however the cost is defrayed. Mr. Burleson tried to be a good postmaster general by paring expenses and letting the service go to pot. Mr. Hays is a good postmaster general because he gives good service.

WORST HAS PASSED.

"Cheer up, the worst is yet to come," is an ironical, time-worn old adage that can be revised for the present. Just now the business man can look in his mirror, and say: "Cheer up, the worst has happened." And the worst having happened, what follows naturally must be in the way of improvement. Everybody agrees that the country is on the up-grade, although it naturally will be some time before the increased buying capacity of the public will begin to make itself materially felt.

What a well-known financial expert has termed "deferred business" has accumulated, and is accumulating every day. This means that as soon as the tide of trade sets in strongly, with prices stabilized and rising here and there, orders will be placed for all manner of commodities. It is an odd fact that buying slows up on a falling market, and is stimulated as soon as there is an indication of sustained advances.

The wise dealer or manufacturer is getting his house in order. He is keeping his business favorably before the public. He will be ready to take full advantage of the steady growth of business that is just ahead. While the pessimist is bemoaning his fate, the optimist is going after business—and getting it.

SUCCESS IN SIGHT.

President Harding believes the success of the arms conference to be assured. Twice in one day he so expressed himself, and when the president speaks in that vein he has very good reasons for his conclusions, for Mr. Harding is not a hasty man.

Though from the very outset it has been apparent that much good would come out of the conference, the executive has maintained silence as to results. Now that he has spoken, it is not too much to expect developments of magnitude at Washington within a short time.

LET'S GET BUSY NOW.

Do your buying and your paying now—and do it in Wisconsin Rapids. When you pay a debt here you will see some of the money again in some form; when you make purchases here you will see some of the money again some time. When you pay a debt or make a purchase you add movement to the city's life blood and you help yourself.

As money circulation increases business is more brisk, employment increases. Let's get busy and make Wisconsin Rapids hum with business from now on. Be your own booster, don't worry about the man next to you. Maybe he is waiting to see what you will do.

THE DIFFERENCE.

President Harding in his message to congress alluded to the difficulty of drawing a line between the laborer and the capitalist.

Here is a curious fact that radicals who have been preaching the overthrow of "capital" have not taken into consideration. Every man with a Liberty bond in his strong box, a few dollars above his needs, or a house and lot, is to that extent a capitalist; and every wealthy man who labors with hand or brain, or both, is to that extent a laborer.

It is likely that a careful census of the population, taken with these two definitions in mind, would show, first that a very large majority of Americans are laborers; second, that a very small majority are capitalists, and third, that those who are merely laborers without opportunity of advancement or hope of anything but the little they now have, are tremendously in the minority.

This is still the country of opportunity. The poor of today will, in many instances, be the rich of tomorrow. The interests of the country do not lie with making it easier for a man to pile up wealth or in coddling the man who works, but in offering each an equal opportunity and insofar as lies in our power safeguarding the welfare of all.

There is much room for improvement along these lines. A square deal for everybody is all that any American has a right to ask, but every one of us has a right to demand that.

Who's Who In Wisconsin Rapids

The Who's Who column will be run each Saturday in the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune. It will include a brief sketch of the life of citizens who have helped make history for Wisconsin Rapids.

Guy O. Babcock

GUY O. BABCOCK

The subject of today's sketch is Guy O. Babcock, cashier of the Wood County National Bank and one of central Wisconsin's prominent bankers. It is the story of the accomplishment of a man who came to Wisconsin Rapids to build his future and is filled with success of his work and his efforts.

Born in Appleton

Turning back the pages of time a few years, we learn that Guy O. Babcock is a native of the Badger state, being born in Appleton on January 22, 1871, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. Babcock. The family resided in Appleton for many years where Mr. Babcock received his early education. The father Dean C. Babcock, was a prominent attorney, practicing his profession in that city.

First Business Venture

Guy O. Babcock's first business venture was in North Dakota in the early days of settlement of the prairie state. In company with his brother, C. A. Babcock, now a prominent paper mill owner, and an aunt they went into the railroad restaurant business, operating in a small town. They soon found that business far from their liking and inclinations and sold out. After disposing of the business they returned to Appleton, where Mr. Babcock reentered the high school for a two year's course. Upon finishing his schooling, he went to Kaukauna to take up work in a mercantile establishment as clerk. Not finding that as a suitable profession he applied for a position in the First National Bank of Kaukauna and was accepted, becoming bookkeeper and collector. This was his first entree to a career which led him to his present position in the financial realm of this district. Two years of hard and tedious work in the ranks of the bank brought him the reward of a position of assistant cashier, this at the remarkably young age of nineteen years. He continued to serve in that capacity until 1900, when he moved with his family to the west, taking up residence in Colorado Springs. He soon found an opening in the First National Bank of Colorado Springs, remaining with that institution for six years.

In August 1906, Mr. Babcock heeded the call to return to his native state coming to Wisconsin Rapids with his family to become the cashier of the Wood County National Bank. Mr. Babcock was soon recognized for his ability as an executive, demonstrating his capacity in his official position as well as in positions of public trust. His services have been much in demand here and he has given himself unselfishly to serve in many lines of community activity.

Organized Banks

He was quick to sense the possibilities of this region and proven his faith in the progress of this state by developing a number of the smaller banking institutions in this community. He was one of the organizers of the Dairyman's State Bank of Arpin and the Farmer's State Bank of Rudolph, serving as officer and director in both of these institutions. Mr. Babcock and his associates purchased the controlling interest in Vesper State Bank and under their guidance this institution as well as the others have continued to grow and prosper. The Nekoosa State Bank was organized by Mr. Babcock and associates and he was the choice for president holding that position since the organization. Even though he is being continually called upon for matters of a public nature and as well as being engrossed with the affairs of the Wood County National Bank, Mr. Babcock has found time to devote to aid and direct the policies and business of these outlying financial institutions, which owe much of their progress to his excellent counsel. Besides his banking connections, Mr. Babcock is interested in several other business institutions serving as director and officer.

In Public Work

During the war, Mr. Babcock was prominent in various campaigns and drives, taking an active part in the war campaigns, in the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A. and other organizations. He was one of the members of the executive committee of the drive for the Riverview Hospital when $20,000 was raised for the benefit of that worthy institution.

He served for several years as a director of the Chamber of Commerce and always takes an active interest in the affairs of commercial development in this city. He has served for several years as a member of the Board of Education and has held the presidency of that body for four terms. He has shown himself a staunch citizen in working for the interest of better schools and a high grade of education for Wisconsin Rapids.

Prominent In Lodges

Besides his many business affiliations, Mr. Babcock is prominent in the lodge affairs of this city. He is a member of the Masonic order serving once as Worshipful Master of the lodge, and is a member of the Chapter and Commandry of the order. He is also an Elk and was one of the charter members of the Rotary Club of Wisconsin Rapids, serving as the second president of the club. It was during his administration that the club was expanded and developed into a strong association.

Married in 1894

On October 9, 1894, Mr. Babcock was united in marriage to Winifred Chamberlain of Kaukauna at that city. They have two sons, Charles Harold Babcock of the town of Hiles and Dean C. Babcock of Clintonville, both of whom are now married and established in their own homes, where they are successfully engaged in business. Mr. and Mrs. Babcock are prominent members of the social circles of the city and are counted as among the most popular citizens of Wisconsin Rapids, Mrs. Babcock being prominent in social and club work here.

Splendid Type of Citizen

Mr. Babcock is a member of the Congregational church of this city and one of its most loyal and devout members. He has taken an active part in the affairs of the church and in the work. Mr. Babcock represents the type of red blooded, loyal citizens, whose principles are of the highest and whose personality is of the most pleasing and attractive.

EXPRESS COMPANY REQUESTS EARLY XMAS SHIPMENTS

EARLY SHIPPING AND PROPER PACKING WILL INSURE PROMPT DELIVERY, LOCAL AGENT STATES

Local express forces are making special preparations for the handling of the Christmas traffic, according to a statement made today by W. S. Fishback, Agent in charge of the city express office.

"We wish to emphasize the importance of shipping holiday gift packages early," said Mr. Fishback today. "This will avoid congestion with the regular traffic, and insure their arrival on time. Our most important task in handling holiday shipments is to deliver them before Christmas Day."

The express agent declared that the carriers ask the public to ship their Christmas gifts in "perfect packages," so that the shipments may be safely and quickly delivered.

Ask Special Care

He points out that it is advisable for holiday shippers to take special care in the packing and marking of their gift shipments. He urges plain, legible addresses directly on shipments, if possible, and with "all old marks erased."

Christmas gifts in boxes or cartoons should be so re-inforced with packing material as to avoid shifting of contents in transit. It is advisable to place the name and address of the shipper inside of the package.

This "inside information" often leads to the recovery of a misdirected or miscarried shipment, or one from which the address has been lost in transit.

The express company is distributing Christmas labels for gift shipments, carrying the words "Not to be Opened until Christmas," which can be obtained at local express offices.

"REPEAT INTERNATIONAL"

What Does It Mean?

When the International Motor truck owner adds to his hauling equipment, he has a great array from which to choose. But experience has taught him not to stray away from proved dependability. He knows a better course than to experiment with the untried.

One business institution has over 2000 Internationals in Service. It must be admitted that an investments of millions of dollars in motor truck haulage can only be the result of extended investigation and comparison.

In Florida, where the sand is deep and the going is hardest, the State record of registration shows 35 more Internationals than any other make of truck.

There are some of the reasons why the International is used in every corner of the civilized world.

Come in at any time and we will gladly tell you more about the International.

ASK FUNDS FOR HELIUM PLANT

ARMY OFFICER SAYS PEACE TIME VALUE OF GAS WARRANTS MAINTENANCE OF PRODUCTION

Fort Worth, Tex.—Hope that congress will see the possibilities of helium-non explosive baloon gas—not as a war time measure, but for purposes of peace, was expressed by Commander Allen G. Olson, in charge of the helium plant operated near Fort Worth by the United States navy. The limitation of armament program should not influence helium production, he said, because of its peace time possibilities.

The plant here, which is one of the two in the United States, was shut down at midnight November 30, pending further appropriation by congress to maintain it. The other plant, located at Petrolia, Texas, has been closed since July 1, 1921, the end of the last fiscal year.

Ask Congress Aid

Repersentatives in congress have been asked to aid in influencing that body to increase the appropriation for maintaining the Fort Worth plant. Comamnder Olson expects the plant to be shut down only for a short time, he said, until congress can make suitable provision after it convenes December 5. Several hundred thousand dollars will be necessary for the operarion of the plant on a full time basis, he said.

Established in 1918, the helium plant here has been engaged chiefly in experimental work while producin gthe gas. While the cost of extracting the helium from the natural gas of the petroleum fields of Texas has been expensive, Commander Olson said, the Fort Worth plant gradually has been lowering the cost of production.

Is Non-Explosive

"Helium is worth any price," said Commander Olson, "if for no other reason than its non-explosive quality, which eliminates the great danger now present in lighter-than-air craft."

The local plant has sufficient funds to maintain it on a "stand-by" basis until July 1, 1922, the beginning of the next fiscal year, the commander said. The working force numbers 130 to 150 men, he said.

The helium is stored in metal cylinders holding 200 cubic feet, after it has been extracted from the natural gas. The storage space is sufficient for about a million cubic feet of the gas, the commander said.

The product of the plant here is about 95 per cent pure, according to Commander Olson. Helium must be 90 per cent pure in order to be entirely non-explosive, chemists say.

HEALTH TESTS SHOW BIG GAINS IN WEIGHT

Cleveland, O.—A series of tests conducted by the Cuyahoga County Public Health Association, which just ended, resulted in thirteen newsboys gaining a pound a week in weight. Eight-tenths of a pound a month is the normal gain for boys of their age, it was stated.

Of two teams of newsboys, a score in all, which started out on a five weeks test, thirteen finished. During the test the boys abstained from drinking coffee, tea and smoking, and drank a pint of milk a day.

There is a movement on foot to ban the short skirt, but its opponents are not proceeding on the ground that it has been here too long.

Who's Who In Wisconsin Rapids

The Who's Who column will be run each Saturday in the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune. It will include a brief sketch of the life of citizens who have helped make history for Wisconsin Rapids.

Guy O. Babcock

GUY O. BABCOCK

The subject of today's sketch is Guy O. Babcock, cashier of the Wood County National Bank and one of central Wisconsin's prominent bankers. It is the story of the accomplishment of a man who came to Wisconsin Rapids to build his future and is filled with success of his work and his efforts.

Born in Appleton

Turning back the pages of time a few years, we learn that Guy O. Babcock is a native of the Badger state, being born in Appleton on January 22, 1871, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. Babcock. The family resided in Appleton for many years where Mr. Babcock received his early education. The father Dean C. Babcock; was a prominent attorney, practicing his profession in that city.

First Business Venture

Guy O. Babcock's first business venture was in North Dakota in the early days of settlement of the prairie state. In company with his brother, C. A. Babcock, now a prominent paper mill owner, and an aunt they went into the railroad restaurant business, operating in a small town. They soon found that business far from their liking and inclinations and sold out. After disposing of the business they returned to Appleton, where Mr. Babcock reentered the high school for a two year's course. Upon finishing his schooling, he went to Kaukauna to take up work in a mercantile establishment as clerk. Not finding that as a suitable profession he applied for a position in the First National Bank of Kaukauna and was accepted, becoming bookkeeper and collector. This was his first entree to a career which led him to his present position in the financial realm of this district. Two years of hard and tedious work in the ranks of the bank brought him the reward of a position of assistant cashier, this at the remarkably young age of nineteen years. He continued to serve in that capacity until 1900, when he moved with his family to the west, taking up residence in Colorado Springs. He soon found an opening in the First National Bank of Colorado Springs, remaining with that institution for six years.

In August 1906, Mr. Babcock heeded the call to return to his native state coming to Wisconsin Rapids with his family to become the cashier of the Wood County National Bank. Mr. Babcock was soon recognized for his ability as an executive, demonstrating his capacity in his official position as well as in positions of public trust. His services have been much in demand here and he has given himself unselfishly to serve in many lines of community activity.

Organized Banks

He was quick to sense the possibilities of this region and proved his faith in the progress of this state by developing a number of the smaller banking institutions in this community. He was one of the organizers of the organizers of the Dairyman's State Bank of Arpin and the Farmer's State Bank of Rudolph, serving as officer and director in both of these institutions. Mr. Babcock and his associates purchased the controlling interest in Vesper State Bank and under their guidance this institution as well as the others have continued to grow and prosper. The Nekoosa State Bank was organized by Mr. Babcock and his associates and he was the choice for president holding that position since the organization. Even though he is being continually called upon for matters of a public nature and as well as being engrossed with the affairs of the Wood County National Bank, Mr. Babcock has found time to devote to aid and direct the policies and business of these outlying financial institutions, which owe much of their progress to his excellent counsel. Besides his banking connections, Mr. Babcock is interested in several other business institutions serving as director and officer.

In Public Work

During the war, Mr. Babcock was prominent in various campaigns and drives, taking an active part in the war campaigns, in the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A. and other organizations. He was one of the members of the executive committee of the drive for the Riverview Hospital when $20,000 was raised for the benefit of that worthy institution.

He served for several years as a director of the Chamber of Commerce and always takes an active interest in the affairs of commercial development in this city. He has served for several years as a member of the Board of Education and has held the presidency of that body for four terms. He has shown himself a staunch citizen in working for the interest of better schools and a high grade of education for Wisconsin Rapids.

Prominent In Lodges

Besides his many business affiliations, Mr. Babcock is prominent in the lodge affairs of this city. He is a member of the Masonic order serving once as Worshipful Master of the lodge, and is a member of the Chapter and Commandry of the order. He is also an Elk and was one of the charter members of the Rotary Club of Wisconsin Rapids, serving as the second president of the club. It was during his administration that the club was expanded and developed into a strong association.

Married in 1891

On October 9, 1894, Mr. Babcock was united in marriage to Winifred Chamberlain of Kaukauna at that city. They have two sons, Charles Harold Babcock of the town of Hiles and Dean C. Babcock of Clintonville, both of whom are now married and established in their own homes, where they are successfully engaged in business. Mr. and Mrs. Babcock are prominent members of the social circles of the city and are counted as among the most popular citizens of Wisconsin Rapids. Mrs. Babcock being prominent in social and club work here.

Splendid Type of Citizen

Mr. Babcock is a member of the Congregational church of this city and one of its most loyal and devout members. He has taken an active part in the affairs of the church and in the work. Mr. Babcock represents the type of red blooded, loyal citizens, whose principles are of the highest and whose personality is of the most pleasing and attractive.

EXPRESS COMPANY REQUESTS EARLY XMAS SHIPMENTS

Local express forces are making special preparations for the handling of the Christmas traffic, according to a statement made today by W. S. Fishback, Agent in charge of the city express office.

"We wish to emphasize the importance of shipping holiday gift packages early," said Mr. Fishback today. "This will avoid congestion with the regular traffic, and insure their arrival on time. Our most important task in handling holiday shipments is to deliver them before Christmas Day."

The express agent declared that the carriers ask the public to ship their Christmas gifts in "perfect packages," so that the shipments may be safely and quickly delivered.

Ask Special Care

He points out that it is advisable for holiday shippers to take special care in the packing and marking of their gift shipments. He urges plain, legible addresses directly on shipments, if possible, and with "all old marks erased."

Chirstmas gifts in boxes or cartoons should be so re-inforced with packing material as to avoid shifting of contents in transit. It is advisable to place the name and address of the shipper inside of the package.

This "inside information" often leads to the recovery of a misdirected or miscarried shipment, or one from which the address has been lost in transit.

The express company is distributing Christmas labels for gift shipments, carrying the words "Not to be Opened until Christmas," which can be obtained at local express offices.

"REPEAT INTERNATIONAL"

What Does It Mean?

When the International Motor truck owner adds to his hauling equipment, he has a great array from which to choose. But experience has taught him not to stray away from proved dependability. He knows a better course than to experiment with the untried.

One business institution has over 2000 Internationals in Service. It must be admitted that an investments of millions of dollars in motor truck haulage can only be the result of extended investigation and comparison.

In Florida, where the sand is deep and the going is hardest, the State record of registration shows 35 more Internationals than any other make of truck.

Those are some of the reasons why the International is used in every corner of the civilized world.

Come in at any time and we will gladly tell you more about the International.

CHAPTER V.—Scraggs refuses to submit his promises and Gibney and McGuffey "strike." With marvelous luck, Scraggs ships a fresh crew. At the end of a few days of wild conviviality Gibney and McGuffey are stranded and seek their old positions on the Maggie. They are hostilely received, but remain. On their way to San Francisco they sight a derelict and Gibney and McGuffey swim to it.

CHAPTER VI.—The derelict proves to be the Chesapeake, richly laden, its entire crew stricken with scurvy. Scraggs's attempts to tow her in, but the Maggie is unequal to the task. And Gibney and McGuffey, alone, sail the ship to San Francisco, their salvage money amounting to $200 apiece.

CHAPTER VII.—Independently rich, our two adventurers still have a kindly feeling for the Maggie, and, his crew having deserted him, Captain Scraggs induces them to return. At an "old horse" sale the three purchase two mysterious boxes which they believe to contain smuggled "Oriental goods." They find, instead, two dead Chinamen.

CHAPTER VIII.—Scraggs seeks to "double cross" his two associates, but Mr. Gibney outwits him and makes a satisfactory financial settlement with the Chinese company to whom the bodies have been consigned, leaving Scraggs out in the cold.

CHAPTER IX.—Gibney resents McGuffey's action in lending money to Scraggs without consulting him, and after a terrific wordy combat the three separate, McGuffey becoming assistant engineer on an oil tanker, Gibney disappearing, and Scraggs, forced to lay up the Maggie, takes a subordinate position on a ferry steamer. Señor Lopez, Mexican revolutionist, makes Scraggs a generous offer for transportation of munitions to Lower California. Scraggs accepts, and the old Maggie is once more put into commission. Arriving at his destination, Scraggs finds his old companion, Mr. Gibney, is the consignee. Time having softened animosities, the reunion is joyful. Gibney plans to steal the ammunition and convey it to revolutionists in Colombia. On their way they are attacked by a Mexican gunboat, which they capture, though the Maggie is damaged so that it has to be destroyed. On the gunboat, to which they transfer, they find their old friend McGuffey acting as engineer.

"Like playin' post-office," was McGuffey's comment.

The commodore smiled. "I thought you boys would see it that way. Now tomorrow I'm going ashore to buy three d'ver' outfits and lay in a big stock of provisions for the voyage. In the meantime, while the carpenters are gettin' the ship into shape, we'll leave the first mate in charge while we go ashore and have a good time. I've seen worse places than Panama."

As a result of this conference Mr. Gibney's suggestions were acted upon, and they contrived to make their brief stay in Panama very agreeable. They inspected the work on the canal, marveled at the stupendous engineering in the Culebra Cut, drank a little, gambled a little. McGuffey whipped a bartender. He was ordered arrested, and six spiggoty little policemen, sent to arrest him, were also thrashed. The reserves were called out and a riot ensued. Mr. Gibney, following the motto of the syndicate, i. e.,

All for one and one for all—
United we stand, divided we fall,

mixed in the conflict and presently found himself in durance vile. Captain Scraggs, luckily, forgot the motto and escaped, but inasmuch as he was on hand next morning to pay a fine of thirty pesos levied against each of the culprits, he was instantly forgiven. Mr. Gibney vowed that if a United States cruiser didn't happen to be lying in the roadstead, he would have shelled the town in retaliation.

But eventually the days passed, and the Maggie II, well found and ready for sea, shook out her sails to a fair breeze and sailed away for Kandavu. She kept well to the southwest until she struck the southeast trades, when she swung around on her course, headed straight for her destination. It was a pleasant voyage, devoid of incident, and the health of all hands was excellent. Mr. Gibney took daily observations, and was particular to make daily entries in his log when he, Scraggs, and McGuffey were not playing cribbage, a game of which all three were passionately fond.

On the afternoon of the twenty-ninth day after leaving Panama the lookout reported land. Through his glasses Mr. Gibney made out a cluster of palms at the southerly end of the island, and as the schooner held her course he could discern the white breakers foaming over the reefs that guarded the entrance to the harbor.

"That's Kandavu, all right," announced the commodore. "I was there in '80 with Bill McGinty in the schooner Dashin' Wave. There's the entrance to the harbor, with the Esk reefs to the north and the Pearl reefs to the south. The channel's very narrow—not more than three cables, if it's that, but there's plenty of water and a good muddy bottom that'll hold. McGuffey, lad, better run below and tune up your engines. It's too dangerous a passage on an ebb-tide for a sailin' vessel, so we'll run in under the power. Scraggsy, stand by and when I give the word have your crew shorten sail."

Within a few minutes a long white streak opened up in the wake of the schooner, announcing that McGuffey's engines were doing duty, and a nice breeze springing up two points aft the beam, the Maggie heeled over and fairly flew through the water. Mr. Gibney smiled an ecstatic smile as he took the wheel and guided the schooner through the channel. He rounded her up in twelve fathoms, and within five minutes every stitch of canvas was clewed down hard and fast. The sun was setting as they dropped anchor, and Mr. Gibney had lanterns hung along the sail so that it would be impossible for any craft to approach the schooner and board her without being seen. Also the watch on deck that night carried Mauser rifles, six-shooters, and cutlasses. Mr. Gibney was taking no chances.

CHAPTER XI.

"Now, boys," announced Commodore Gibney, as he sat at the head of the officers' mess at breakfast next morning, "there'll be a lot of canoes paddling out to visit us within the hour, so whatever you do, don't allow more than two of these cannibals aboard the schooner at the same time. Make 'em keep their weapons in the canoes with 'em, and at the first sign of trouble shoot 'em down like dogs. It may be that these precautions ain't necessary, but when I was here twenty years ago it was all the rage to kill a white man and eat him. Maybe times has changed, but the harbor and the coast looks just as wild and lonely as they ever did, and I didn't see no sign of missionary when we dropped hook last night. So don't take no chances."

All hands promised that they would take extreme care, to the end that their precious persons might remain intact, so Mr. Gibney finished his cup of coffee at a gulp and went on deck.

The Kandavu aborigines were not long in putting in an appearance. Even as Mr. Gibney came on deck half a dozen canoes shot out from the beach. Mr. Gibney immediately piped all hands on deck, armed them, and nonchalantly awaited the approach of what might or might not turn out to be an enemy.

When the flotilla was within pistol shot of the schooner Mr. Gibney stepped to the rail and motioned them back. Immediately the natives ceased paddling, and a wild-looking fellow stood up in the forward canoe. After the manner of his kind he had all his life soused his head in lime-water when making his savage toilette, and as a result his shock of black hair stood on end and bulged out like a crowded hayrick. He was naked, of course, and in his hand he held a huge war club.

"That feller'd eat a rattlesnake," gasped Captain Scraggs. "Shoot him, Gib, if he bats an eye."

"Shut up," said the commodore, a trifle testily; "that's the number-one nigger, who does the talkin'. Hello, boy."

"Hello, cap'n," replied the savage, and salaamed gravely. "You likee buy chicken, buy pig? Maybe you say come 'board. I talk. Me very good friend white master."

"Bless my sweet-scented soul!" gasped the commodore. "What won't them missionaries do next? Cut off my ears if this nigger ain't civilized!" He beckoned to the canoe and it shot alongside, and its brown crew came climbing over the rail of the Maggie II.

GREEN BAY HOLDS ANNUAL EXPOSITION

Green Bay, Dec. 16.—The annual Jobbers' and Manufacturers' exposition will be held here Feb. 21-24, according to an announcement by the show committee. The exposition is being held under the auspices of the Jobbers' and Manufacturers' divisions of the Association of Commerce.

The committee reports indicate that the exposition of 1922 will surpass the one of 1921 in every respect. Over one half of the floor space has been already contracted for and it is understood that no trouble will be experienced in disposing of the rest of the space as the jobbers and manufacturers are exhibit their wares.

Food and building products will be given particular attention as it is hoped to make these exhibits the biggest feature of the exposition. An effort will be made to lay out the building section in such a way as to make the prospective home owner easily recognize the best material available.

Every retail dealer who has been doing business with Green Bay firms will be extended an invitation. An effort is also being made by the show committee to get reduced railroad rates to the exposition.

ASK FUNDS FOR HELIUM PLANT

ARMY OFFICER SAYS PEACE TIME VALUE OF GAS WARRANTS MAINTENANCE OF PRODUCTION

Fort Worth, Tex.—Hope that congress will see the possibilities of helium-non explosive baloon gas—not as a war time measure, but for purposes of peace, was expressed by Commander Allen G. Olson, in charge of the helium plant operated near Fort Worth by the United States navy. The limitation of armament program should not influence helium production, he said, because of its peace time possibilities.

The plant here, which is one of the two in the United States, was shut down at midnight November 30, pending further appropriation by congress to maintain it. The other plant, located at Petrolia, Texas, has been closed since July 1, 1921, the end of the last fiscal year.

Ask Congress Aid

Representatives in congress have been asked to aid in influencing that body to increase the appropriation for maintaining the Fort Worth plant. Comamander Olson expects the plant to be shut down only for a short time, he said, until congress can make suitable provision after it convenes December 5. Several hundred thousand dollars will be necessary for the operation of the plant on a full time basis, he said.

Established in 1918, the helium plant here has been engaged chiefly in experimental work while producin gthe gas. While the cost of extracting the helium from the natural gas of the petroleum fields of Texas has been expensive, Commander Olson said, the Fort Worth plant gradually has been lowering the cost of production.

Is Non-Explosive

"Helium is worth any price," said Commander Olson, "if for no other reason than its non-explosive quality, which eliminates the great danger now present in lighter-than-air craft."

The local plant has sufficient funds to maintain it on a "stand-by" basis until July 1, 1922, the beginning of the next fiscal year, the commander said. The working force numbers 130 to 150 men, he said.

The helium is stored in metal cylinders holding 200 cubic feet, after it has been extracted from the natural gas. The storage space is sufficient for about a million cubic feet of the gas, the commander said.

The product of the plant here is about 95 per cent pure, according to Commander Olson. Helium must be 99 per cent pure in order to be entirely non-explosive, chemists say.

HEALTH TESTS SHOW BIG GAINS IN WEIGHT

Cleveland, O.—A series of tests conducted by the Cuyahoga County Public Health Association, which just ended, resulted in thirteen newsboys gaining a pound a week in weight. Eight-tenths of a pound a month is the normal gain for boys of their age, it was stated.

Of two teams of newsboys, a score in all, which started out on a five weeks test, thirteen finished. During the test the boys abstained from drinking coffee, tea and smoking, and drank a pint of milk a day.

There is a movement on foot to ban the short skirt, but its opponents are not proceeding on the ground that it has been here too long.

THEATRES

PALACE THEATER

"The Fighter" was written by Albert Payson Terhune and is said to be among the best photoplays in which Conway Tearle has been starred. Lovely Winifred Westover plays the leading feminine role and direction was by Henry Kolker.

The story has to do with a man who by dint of his inherent fighting disposition, has won his way to the top of the heap in the commercial world. He is a man's man throughout and has little time or thought for the frivolities of life. But his ward, Dey Sherlin (Miss Westover), has just reached the budding stage and, as with most debutantes, she has an eye open for high social opportunities. Her guardian, despite his lack of interest in things socially, determines that his ward shall have her wish and it is then that The Fighter finds himself confronted with the most difficult struggle in his fighting career. His enemies find a new avenue of attack that heretofore had remained closed to them and the battle that ensues makes for one of the most engrossing bits of screen fiction ever shown.

Another big feature of this new Conway Tearle picture is a thrilling train wreck in which the hero and his engine in which he is racing pitches off a burning trestle into a river some two hundred feet below. The scene carries all the realism and thrill of a genuine wreck and was secured at great expense and hazard on the part of those filming it.

IDEAL THEATER

Mr. Cabanne, always insistent upon true types for the various roles in his productions, selected all his players with an eye to their especial fitness for the parts to which they were assigned.

Kenneth Harlan, juvenile lead, who portrays the part of Robert Brennan who was reared from boyhood by a kindly old Hebrew, has won a high reputation as a skillful actor. In support of Constance Talmadge he has done particularly good work.

Katherine Spencer, well known on the stage and screen, plays opposite Mr. Harlan and gives a distinguished performance. Miss Spencer has a role to which she gives the full scope of her unusual talents. As a young woman of high standing in social life, she portrays her part with great skill.

William A. Strauss has the most important role. As an elderly Hebrew who rears the young Irish boy and enables him to attain success as a physician, he puts into effect his theory that genuine love and human understanding do far more to beget happiness than prejudice and false pride.

Mr. Strauss has for years been prominent on the stage as a character actor and leading man and frequently "followed" David Warfield in that famous actor's roles in road productions such as "The Music Master," "The Auctioneer" and others. As a screen actor, too, Mr. Strauss has built for himself a formidable reputation.

Eugene Borden, as Sam Steiner, a ne'er-do-well, is one of the outstanding members of the cast. He will be recalled for his artistic playing in "The Stealers" and others of Mr. Cabanne's productions. Mr. Borden is a young actor of high attainments.

"The Barricade" will be shown at the Ideal theater Tuesday and Wednesday, December 21 and 22.

SCHOOLHOUSE IS BEST AGENT FOR AMERICANIZATION

Madison, Wis.—The one room school house is proving to be the greatest force for Americanization of Wisconsin's so-called "foreign settlements", which are particularly numerous in the newly developed sections of the northern counties, according to G. M. Householder of the state bureau of immigration.

With the establishment of the American school in settlements, often made up of foreigners retaining the customs of their home country, comes a gradual transformation that cannot be resisted, Mr. Householder said. Children take up the language and the ways of modern America which they carry into their homes, he declared, bringing about a change from the old country conventions.

Many Foreigners

Scattered throughout the northern counties of the state are small communities where the foreigners of like nationalities congregate according to the immigration bureau. Germans and Scandinavians head the list of foreign born, with Slavs and Poles in somewhat smaller numbers, and scattered settlements of Swiss, Hollanders, Bohemians and Danes.

Into this country with the other American settlers have come Kentuckians, who have taken to wood cutting in Forest county. Their settlements are said tohave a resemblance to their former Kentucky hill homes, with moonshining not uncommon.

While foreign born are numerous in sections of the state, the great influx of immigrants here are from the corn belt states, settled Americans who wish to buy farms of their own, Mr. Householder said. Their influence, he declared, is to bring a change from the old world customs of their foreign born neighbors.

School Americanizes

But the real influence for Americanization, in his opinion, is the one room school, and along with it, the county agent extending boys and girls club work. Entering the home through the children is the best way to improve the standard of living of a family that has not yet acquired American ways, nor the English language.

The Germans, Scandinavians and the Bohemians are said to be exceptionally good managers and general farmers, and to have been active in developing the cut-over sections of the north. They Americanize rapidly and are said to be quick in taking advantage of more advanced farming methods.

The most important industry is said to be dairying. New methods are rapidly being adopted by the foreigners through activity of the schools and county agents, and with more advanced farming ways, the industry is declared to be rapidly developing.

CHILDREN EARNING OWN XMAS MONEY

Great enthusiasm has been shown by the children of the Lincoln and Irving School Kindergartens, who are planning Christmas presents for their parents. In order to get the gifts, they have been earning and saving pennies and bringing them to the kindergarten. When they have earned the necessary amounts, the gifts will be purchased and put into a box which they have made.

Some very interesting and amusing tasks have been performed by them in earning their money. Here are some of the tasks as reported by the children:

Howard Leland helped put the chairs near the dining table. Jimmie Hanneman got in the daily paper and brought potatoes and onions up from the cellar. Donald Reiland took up the dishes for his mother. Betty McGlynn wiped dishes. Frank Gaulke dressed his little brother and go him ready to go to town. Helen Arndt took care of the baby for mother. Ralph Sampson went down town for his sister Janet. Howard Horton, Jr. carried wood. Lois Stahl washed and wiped the dishes and pumped water. Madeline Lew swept the kitchen floor. Leonard Smith went to the store for milk. Pattie Howard picked up the sewing scraps. Jimmie Minehan swept the floor for his mother. Dorothy Hanneman wiped the dishes. Susan Turbin cleaned house. Doris Gieue put crean paper in the knife box. Marvin Love took Mrs. Slattery's hammer to his grandpa to have it fixed.

Numerous other tasks were done by these small children who have caught the Christmas spirit and are working hard to be a real Santa Claus themselves.

The Green Pea Pirates

By PETER B. KYNE

Author of "Webster—Man's Man," "The Valley of the Giants," Etc.

CHAPTER V.—Scraggs refuses to fulfill his promises and Gibney and McGuffey "strike." With marvelous luck, Scraggs ships a fresh crew. At the end of a few days of wild conviviality Gibney and McGuffey are stranded and seek their old positions on the Maggie. They are hostilely received, but remain. On their way to San Francisco they sight a derelict and Gibney and McGuffey swim to it.

CHAPTER VI.—The derelict proves to be the Chesapeake, richly laden, its entire crew stricken with scurvy. Scraggs attempts to tow her in, but the Maggie is unequal to the task and Gibney and McGuffey, alone, sail the ship to San Francisco, their salvage money amounting to $1,000 apiece.

CHAPTER VII.—Independently rich, our two adventurers still have a kindly feeling for the Maggie, and, his crew having deserted him, Captain Scraggs induces them to return. At an "old horse" sale the three purchase two mysterious boxes which they believe to contain smuggled "Oriental goods." They find, instead, two dead Chinamen.

CHAPTER VIII.—Scraggs seeks to "double cross" his two associates, but Mr. Gibney outwits him and makes a satisfactory financial settlement with the Chinese company to whom the bodies have been consigned, leaving Scraggs out in the cold.

CHAPTER IX.—Gibney resents McGuffey's action in lending money to Scraggs without consulting him, and after a terrific wordy combat the three separate, McGuffey becoming assistant engineer on an oil tanker, Gibney disappearing, and Scraggs, forced to lay up the Maggie, takes a subordinate position on a ferry steamer. Senor Lopez, Mexican revolutionist, makes Scraggs a generous offer for transportation of munitions to Lower California. Scraggs accepts, and the old Maggie is once more put into commission. Arriving at his destination, Scraggs finds his old companion, Mr. Gibney, is the consignee. Time having softened animosities, the reunion is joyful. Gibney plans to steal the ammunition and convey it to revolutionists in Colombia. On their way they are attacked by a Mexican gunboat, which they capture, though the Maggie is damaged so that it has to be destroyed. On the gunboat, to which they transfer, they find their old friend McGuffey acting as engineer.

"Like playin' post-office," was McGuffey's comment.

The commodore smiled. "I thought you boys would see it that way. Now tomorrow I'm going ashore to buy three divin' outfits and lay in a big stock of provisions for the voyage. In the interim, while the carpenters are gettin' the ship into shape, we'll leave the first mate in charge while we go ashore and have a good time. I've seen worse places than Panama."

As a result of this conference Mr. Gibney's suggestions were acted upon, and they contrived to make their brief stay in Panama very agreeable. They inspected the work on the canal, marveled at the stupendous engineering in the Culebra Cut, drank a little, gambled a little. McGuffey whipped a bartender. He was ordered arrested, and six spiggoty little policemen, sent to arrest him, were also thrashed. The reserves were called out and a riot ensued. Mr. Gibney, following the motto of the syndicate, i. e.,

All for one and one for all—
United we stand, divided we fall,

mixed in the conflict and presently found himself in durance vile. Captain Scraggs, luckily, forgot the motto and escaped, but inasmuch as he was on hand next morning to pay a fine of thirty pesos levied against each of the culprits, he was instantly forgiven. Mr. Gibney vowed that if a United States cruiser didn't happen to be lying in the roadstead, he would have shelled the town in retaliation.

But eventually the days passed, and the Maggie II, well found and ready for sea, shook out her sails to a fair breeze and sailed away for Kandavu. She kept well to the southwest until she struck the southeast trades, when she swung around on her course, headed straight for her destination. It was a pleasant voyage, devoid of incident, and the health of all hands was excellent. Mr. Gibney took daily observations, and was particular to make daily entries in his log when he, Scraggs, and McGuffey were not playing cribbage, a game of which all three were passionately fond.

On the afternoon of the twenty-ninth day after leaving Panama the lookout reported land. Through his glasses Mr. Gibney made out a cluster of tall palms at the southerly end of the island, and as the schooner held lazily on her course he could discern the white breakers foaming over the reefs that guarded the entrance to the harbor.

"That's Kandavu, all right," announced the commodore. "I was there in '89 with Bill McGinty in the schooner Dashin' Wave. There's the entrance to the harbor, with the Esk reefs to the north and the Pearl reefs to the south. The channel's very narrow—not more than three cables, if it's that, but there's plenty of water and a good muddy bottom that'll hold. Mr. Guffey, lad, better run below and tune up your engines. It's too dangerous a passage on an ebb-tide for a sailin' vessel, so we'll run in under the power. Scraggsy, stand by and when I give the word have your crew shorten sail."

Within a few minutes a long white streak opened up in the wake of the schooner, announcing that McGuffey's engines were doing duty, and a nice breeze springing up two points aft the beam, the Maggie heeled over and fairly flew through the water. Mr. Gibney smiled an ecstatic smile as he took the wheel and guided the schooner through the channel. He rounded her up in twelve fathoms, and within five minutes every stitch of canvas was clewed down hard and fast. The sun was setting as they dropped anchor, and Mr. Gibney had lanterns hung along the sail so that it would be impossible for any craft to approach the schooner and board her without being seen. Also the watch on deck that night carried Mauser rifles, six-shooters, and cutlasses. Mr. Gibney was taking no chances.

CHAPTER XI.

"Now, boys," announced Commodore Gibney, as he sat at the head of the officers' mess at breakfast next morning, "there'll be a lot of canoes paddling off to visit us within the hour, so whatever you do, don't allow more than two of these cannibals aboard the schooner at the same time. Make 'em keep their weapons in the canoes with 'em, and at the first sign of trouble shoot 'em down like dogs. It may be that these precautions ain't necessary, but when I was here twenty years ago it was all the rage to kill a white man and eat him. Maybe times has changed, but the harbor and the coast looks just as wild and lonely as they ever did, and I didn't see no sign of missionary when we dropped hook last night. So don't take no chances."

All hands promised that they would take extreme care, to the end that their precious persons might remain intact, so Mr. Gibney finished his cup of coffee at a gulp and went on deck.

The Kandavu aborigines were not long in putting in an appearance. Even as Mr. Gibney came on deck half a dozen canoes shot out from the beach. Mr. Gibney immediately piped all hands on deck, armed them, and nonchalantly awaited the approach of what might or might not turn out to be an enemy.

When the flotilla was within pistol shot of the schooner Mr. Gibney stepped to the rail and motioned them back. Immediately the natives ceased paddling, and a wild-looking fellow stood up in the forward canoe. After the manner of his kind he had all his life soused his head in lime-water when making his savage toilette, and as a result his shock of black hair stood on end and bulged out like a crowded hayrick. He was naked, of course, and in his hand he held a huge war club.

"That feller'd eat a rattlesnake," gasped Captain Scraggs. "Shoot him, Gib, if he bats an eye."

"Shut up," said the commodore, a trifle testily; "that's the number-one nigger, who does the talkin'. Hello, boy."

"Hello, cap'n," replied the savage, and salaamed gravely. "You likee buy chicken, buy pig? Maybe you say come 'board, I talk. Me very good friend white master."

"Bless my sweet-scented soul!" gasped the commodore. "What won't them missionaries do next? Cut off my ears if this nigger ain't civilized!" He beckoned to the canoe and it shot alongside, and its brown crew came climbing over the rail of the Maggie II.

GREEN BAY HOLDS ANNUAL EXPOSITION

Green Bay, Dec. 16.—The annual Jobbers' and Manufacturers exposition will be held here Feb. 21-24, according to an announcement by the show committee. The exposition is being held under the auspices of the Jobbers' and Manufacturers' divisions of the Association of Commerce.

The committee reports indicate that the exposition of 1922 will surpass the one of 1921 in every respect. Over one half of the floor space has been already contracted for and it is understood that no trouble will be experienced in disposing of the rest of the space as the jobbers and manufacturers are exhibit their wares.

Food and building products will be given particular attention as it is hoped to make these exhibits the biggest feature of the exposition. An effort will be made to lay out the building section in such a way as to make the prospective home owner easily recognize the best material available.

Every retail dealer who has been doing business with Green Bay firms will be extended an invitation. An effort is also being made by the show committee to get reduced railroad rates to the exposition.

Tri-City A. C. Will Stage Fight Card Here In January

McLEAN MATCHED WITH AL BEYAR IN FEATURE BOUT

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETS TO SUPPORT PROPOSITION; FARLEY HAS BOXING ARRANGED

[illegible] Wisconsin Rapids and Central Wisconsin [illegible] ever shown in this part of the state is the attraction next Friday evening by John Farley, chairman of the Tri-City A. C. boxing committee of a card to be put on at Poli's theater, January 3. Stewart McLean of St. Paul and Al Beyar of Portland, Ore., both leaders in the 122 pound division, are scheduled for the windup. Eddie Black, who made a great hit here last year, will fight Young White in the semi-windup, and Walter Hein of Port Edwards and Johnny Owens of Nekoosa will attempt to outdo [illegible] of the Tri-Cities [illegible].

Pledge Support

Twenty to twenty-five members of the athletic association, at a meeting at the Elks club last night, agreed to underwrite the affair. John Farley was named chairman of the boxing committee, other members of which are C. M. Nash, L. P. Daniels, Fred Rupin, Frank Abel and Fred Schnabel. The committee will have charge of the show, and will make arrangements for others if it is deemed advisable.

Has Great Record

Stewart McLean, who will battle Al Beyar in the big bout of the evening, has made a great record around the Twin Cities the last few years, and is being touted by many there as the coming champion of his division. McLean has a record of seven knock outs since 1919, and has never been defeated in that time in a total of nearly forty fights in which he has participated. Beyar also, though less well known in this part of the country, has a great record, and will make the St. Paul boy step.

Is Real Scrapper

Leslie "Young" White of Eau Claire, who meets Eddie Black in the semi-windup, is said to be a real contender for the welterweight crown. He has a record of a win and a draw over Jack Malone who was heralded by Tom [illegible] Milwaukee promoter [illegible] of fights [illegible] Farley is confident [illegible] these boys [illegible] the public here a real treat.

Walter Hein and Johnny Owens, who will go six rounds in the preliminary, are both [illegible] Tri-Cities. Both are known as boys who will fight for every [illegible] in the six rounds and will [illegible] of entertainment.

STARK REINFORCES TRI-CITY LINE-UP

The Tri-City team will [illegible] for their game with the [illegible] B'Gosh Overalls at the Armory tonight by the return of Stark [illegible] who has been playing with the [illegible] pleton team in the professional league last fall and is familiar with the B'Gosh team's style of play. Stark's ability on the basketball court is well known to local fans who watched him last year.

With so much good material on hand, Manager Knapp finds it somewhat of a puzzle to decide in advance just what lineup will open the game. The five men starting the game will undoubtedly be chosen from the following: Kinney, Johnson, Fishmer, Hill, Stark, Hammesen, McCourt and Knapp.

The big game has been scheduled for 9:15, so that business men will be able to attend. Two preliminary games will be played, the first, opening at 7:30.

UNIVERSITY CO-EDS PREFER HUSBANDS TO CAREERS, IS REPORT

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17—Co-eds at the university prefer husbands to careers, almost without exception, judging by replies made to questionnaires distributed by the Commerce Magazine, a student publication. But a negligible minority of the girls replying to questions thought they would rather spend their lives in occupations other than home building.

Freshmen women thought, though, that their suitors would have to be earning $20,000 annually before they would become eligible as suitable husbands. Senior women, after four years of college life, generally expressed themselves as satisfied that a salary of $1200 a year would be sufficient for two to commence married life.

Few senior girls expressed a desire to be wealthy or famous. They would rather be of service to their communities, the questionnaires brought out.

A compilation of answers contained in the 3100 questionnaires show that practically 95 per cent of the women students prefer a co-educational school to a girls' school. Many of them replied that they read the sporting pages of newspapers regularly, one co-ed admitting that she reads a sport magazine of considerable note.

The high cost of being amused is apparently borne by the men students at the university since the average cost of entertainment, in answer to the questionnaire, is $3 a month for the girls, while an average of $25 a month is spent on clothes.

The commerce magazine is seeking to find the qualities which the American college student possesses. Questionnaires have been given the students of the University of Wisconsin, [illegible] of which were returned. There is [illegible] questions covering all manner of subjects.

HOPE TO ABOLISH MEXICAN BULL FIGHTS

Mexico City—The newspaper, El Universal has started a campaign against bull fighting which appears to give promise of possible success.

In the belief that the present generation of grownups enjoys the sport so much that its prohibition is impossible, the newspaper is attempting to keep children away from the fights. To this end has placed the mayor of Mexico City and the governor of the Federal District, in which Mexico City is located, on record as opposed to boys and girls witnessing the "brutal sport".

Quarter-page pictures of youngsters eagerly watching the gory sights of the arena have been printed and the newspaper asks if this is the sort of environment that makes for culture and refinement. Felix F. Palavicini, editor of El Universal, long ago placed himself on record as unalterably opposed to bullfights, although, in deference to popular opinion, his newspaper carries exhaustive accounts of the corridas. He argues, however, that if the youngsters are now kept away from the fights the next generation will not want them.

THEATRES

PALACE THEATER

"The Fighter" was written by Albert Payson Terhune and is said to be among the best photoplays in which Conway Tearle has been starred. Lovely Winifred Westover plays the leading feminine role and direction was by Henry Kolker.

The story has to do with a man who by dint of his inherent fighting disposition, has won his way to the top of the heap in the commercial world. He is a man's man throughout and has little time or thought for the frivolities of life. But his ward, Dey Shevlin (Miss Westover), has just reached the budding stage and, as with most debutantes, she has an eye open for high social opportunities. Her guardian, despite his lack of interest in things socially, determines that his ward shall have her wish and it is then that The Fighter finds himself confronted with the most difficult struggle in his fighting career. His enemies find a new avenue of attack that heretofore had remained closed to them and the battle that ensues makes for one of the most engrossing bits of screen fiction ever shown.

Another big feature of this new Conway Tearle picture is a thrilling train wreck in which the hero and his engine in which he is racing pitches off a burning trestle into a river some two hundred feet below. The scene carries all the realism and thrill of a genuine wreck and was secured at great expense and hazard on the part of those filming it.

IDEAL THEATER

One of the most distinguished casts assembled for a screen production in recent weeks may be seen in "The Barricade," produced by William Christy Cabanne for R-C Pictures Corporation and scheduled for screening at the Ideal theater beginning Tuesday.

Mr. Cabanne, always insistent upon true types for the various roles in his productions, selected all his players with an eye to their especial fitness for the parts to which they were assigned.

Kenneth Harlan, juvenile lead, who portrays the part of Robert Brennan who was reared from boyhood by a kindly old Hebrew, has won a high reputation as a skillful actor. In support of Constance Talmadge he has done particularly good work.

Katherine Spencer, well known on the stage and screen, plays opposite Mr. Harlan and gives a distinguished performance. Miss Spencer has a role to which she gives the full scope of her unusual talents. As a young woman of high standing in social life, she portrays her part with great skill.

William A. Strauss has the most important role. As an elderly Hebrew who rears the young Irish boy and enables him to attain success as a physician, he puts into effect his theory that genuine love and human understanding do far more to beget happiness than prejudice and false pride.

Mr. Strauss has for years been prominent on the stage as a character actor and leading man and frequently "followed" David Warfield in that famous actor's roles in road productions such as "The Music Master," "The Auctioneer" and others. As a screen actor, too, Mr. Strauss has built for himself a formidable reputation.

Eugene Borden, as Sam Steiner, a ne'er-do-well, is one of the outstanding members of the cast. He will be recalled for his artistic playing in "The Stealers" and others of Mr. Cabanne's productions. Mr. Borden is a young actor of high attainments.

Dorothy Richards, James Harrison and John O'Connor, the latter a juvenile actor of unusual skill, also appear in Mr. Cabanne's extraordinary cast.

"The Barricade" will be shown at the Ideal theater Tuesday and Wednesday, December 21 and 22.

SCHOOLHOUSE IS BEST AGENT FOR AMERICANIZATION

Madison, Wis.,—The one room school house is proving to be the greatest force for Americanization of Wisconsin's so-called "foreign settlements", which are particularly numerous in the newly developed sections of the northern counties, according to G. M. Householder of the state bureau of immigration.

With the establishment of the American school in settlements, often made up of foreigners retaining the customs of their home country, comes a gradual transformation that cannot be resisted, Mr. Householder said. Children take up the language and the ways of modern America which they carry into their homes, he declared, bringing about a change from the old country conventions.

Many Foreigners

Scattered throughout the northern counties of the state are small communities where the foreigners of like nationalities congregate according to the immigration bureau. Germans and Scandinavians head the list of foreign born, with Slavs and Poles in somewhat smaller numbers, and scattered settlements of Swiss, Hollanders, Bohemians and Danes.

Into this country with the other American settlers have come Kentuckians, who have taken to wood cutting in Forest county. Their settlements are said tohave a resemblance to their former Kentucky hill homes, with moonshining not uncommon.

While foreign born are numerous in sections of the state, the great influx of immigrants here are from the corn belt states, settled Americans who wish to buy farms of their own; Mr. Householder said. Their influence, he declared, is to bring a change from the old world customs of their foreign born neighbors.

School Americanizes

But the real influence for Americanization, in his opinion, is the one room school, and along with it, the county agent extending boys and girls club work. Entering the home through the children is the best way to improve the standard of living of a family that has not yet acquired American ways, nor the English language.

The Germans, Scandinavians and the Bohemians are said to be exceptionally good managers and general farmers, and to have been active in developing the cut-over sections of the north. They Americanize rapidly and are said to be quick in taking advantage of more advanced farming methods.

The most important industry is said to be dairying. New methods are rapidly being adopted by the foreigners through activity of the schools and county agents, and with more advanced farming ways, the industry is declared to be rapidly developing.

CHILDREN EARNING OWN XMAS MONEY

Great enthusiasm has been shown by the children of the Lincoln and Irving School Kindergartens, who are planning Christmas presents for their parents. In order to get the gifts, they have been earning and saving pennies and bringing them to the kindergarten. When they have earned the necessary amounts, the gifts will be purchased and put into a box which they have made.

Some very interesting and amusing tasks have been performed by them in earning their money. Here are some of the tasks as reported by the children:

Howard Leland helped put the chairs near the dining table. Jimmie Hanneman got in the daily paper and brought potatoes and onions up from the cellar. Donald Reiland took up the dishes for his mother. Betty McGlynn wiped dishes. Frank Gaulke dressed his little brother and go him ready to go to town. Helen Arndt took care of the baby for mother. Ralph Sampson went down town for his sister Janet. Howard Horton, Jr. carried wood. Lois Stahl washed and wiped the dishes and pumped water. Madeline Lew swept the kitchen floor. Leonard Smith went to the store for milk. Pattie Howard picked up the sewing scraps. Jimmie Minehan swept the floor for his mother. Dorothy Hanneman wiped the dishes. Susan Turbin cleaned house. Doris Gleue put clean paper in the knife box. Marvin Love took Mrs. Slattery's hammer to his grandpa to have it fixed.

Numerous other tasks were done by these small children who have caught the Christmas spirit and are working hard to be a real Santa Claus themselves.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION AGREES TO SUPPORT PROPOSITION; FARLEY HAS PROGRAM ARRANGED

Fight fans of Wisconsin Rapids and Central Wisconsin are promised twenty-four rounds of the best boxing ever shown in this part of the state in the announcement this morning by John Farley, chairman of the Tri-City A. C. boxing committee, of a card to be put on at Daly's theater, January 5. Stewart McLean of St. Paul and Al Beyar of Portland, Ore., both leaders in the 122 pound division, are scheduled for the wind-up. Eddie Black, who made a great hit here last year will fight Young White in the semi-windup, and Walter Hein of Port Edwards and Johnny Owens of Nekoosa will attempt to settle the fistic supremacy of the Tri-Cities in the preliminary.

Pledge Support

Twenty to twenty-five members of the athletic association, at a meeting at the Elks club last night, agreed to underwrite the affair. John Farley was named chairman of the boxing committee, other members of which are C. M. Nash, L. P. Daniels, Fred Rayan, Frank Abel and Fred Schnabel. The committee will have charge of the show, and will make arrangements for others if it is deemed advisable.

Has Great Record

Stewart McLean, who will battle Al Beyar in the big bout of the evening, has made a great record around the Twin Cities the last few years, and is being touted by many there as the coming champion of his division. McLean has a record of seven knock outs since 1919, and has never been defeated in that time in a total of nearly forty fights in which he has participated. Beyar also, though less well known in this part of the country, has a great record, and will make the St. Paul boy step.

Is Real Scrapper

Leslie "Young" White of Eau Claire, who meets Eddie Black in the semi-windup, is said to be a real contender for the welterweight crown. He has a record of a win and a draw over Jack Malone who was heralded by Tommy Andrews, Milwaukee promoter and sport writer as the coming world champion of the division. Eddie Black appeared here a couple of times last year and showed a style of fighting that won the approval of local enthusiasts. Promoter Farley feels confident that in matching these boys he is offering the public here a real treat.

Walter Hein and Johnny Owens who will go six rounds in the preliminary, are both well known in the Tri-Cities. Both are known as boys who will fight for every minute of the six rounds and will furnish plenty of entertainment.

STARK REINFORCES TRI-CITY LINE-UP

The Tri-City team will be strengthened for their game with the Oshkosh B'Gosh Overalls at the Armory tonight by the return of Stanley Stark who has been playing with the Appleton team in the professional league the fall and is familiar with the B'Gosh team's style of play. Stark's ability on the basketball court is well known to local fans who watched him last year.

With so much good material on hand, Manager Knapp finds it somewhat of a puzzle to decide in advance just what lineup will open the game. The five men starting the game will undoubtedly be chosen from the following: Ritchay, Johnson, Plahmer, Hill, Stark, Rasmussen, McCourt and Knapp.

The big game has been scheduled for 9:15, so that business men will be able to attend. Two preliminary games will be played, the first, opening at 7:30.

UNIVERSITY CO-EDS PREFER HUSBANDS TO CAREERS, IS REPORT

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17—Co-eds at the universtiy prefer husbands to careers, almost without exception, judging by replies made to questionnaires distributed by the Commerce Magazine, a student publication. But a negligible minority of the girls replying to questions thought they would rather spend their lives in occupations other than home building.

Freshmen women thought, though, that their suitors would have to be earning $20,000 annually before they would become eligible as suitable husbands. Senior women, after four years of college life, generally expressed themselves as satisfied that a salary of $1200 a year would be sufficient for two to commence married life.

Few senior girls expressed a desire to be wealthy or famous. They would rather be of service to their communities, the questionnaires brought out.

A compilation of answers contained in the 3100 questionnaires show that practically 95 per cent of the women students prefer a co-educational school to a girls' school. Many of them replied that they read the sporting pages of newspapers regularly, one co-ed admitting that she reads a sport magazine of considerable note.

The high cost of being amused is apparently borne by the men students at the university since the average cost of entertainment, in answer to the questionnaire, is $3 a month for the girls, while an average of $25 a month is spent on clothes.

The commerce magazine is seeking to find the qualities which the American college student possesses. Questionnaires have been given the students at the University of Wisconsin, 3100 of which were returned. Each questionnaire has 120 questions covering 50 different subjects.

HOPE TO ABOLISH MEXICAN BULL FIGHTS

Mexico City—The newspaper, El Universal has started a campaign against bull fighting which appears to give promise of possible success.

In the belief that the present generation of grownups enjoys the sport so much that its prohibition is impossible, the newspaper is attempting to keep children away from the fights. To to that end has placed the mayor of Mexico City and the governor of the Federal District, in which Mexico City is located, on record as opposed to boys and girls witnessing the "brutal sport".

Quarter-page pictures of youngsters eagerly watching the gory sights of the arena have been printed and the newspaper asks if this is the sort of environment that makes for culture and refinement. Felix F. Palavicini, editor of El Universal, long ago placed himself on record as unalterably opposed to bullfights, although, in deference to popular opinion, his newspaper carries exhaustive accounts of the corridas. He argues, however, that if the youngsters are now kept away from the fights the next generation will not want them.
